WFBS announces change of Secretariat

This morning, the World Federation of Building Service Contractors (WFBS) announced that its headquarters had moved from the United States to the Cleaning and Support Services Association in the United Kingdom.

Speaking after the announcement Bob King (President of the WFBS) said:

“I am delighted that the CSSA, and Andrew Large its Chief Executive, has assumed the position of Executive Vice President of the WFBS. I look forward to working with him to promote professional cleaning across the globe in 2010 and beyond.”

“I would also like to pay tribute to the retiring Executive Vice President Carol A. Dean. She has been a tower of strength for the WFBS for over 30 years, and her efforts on behalf of building service contractors cannot be understated. We all owe a tremendous debt of gratitude to her for her hard work in support of our industry. On behalf of the WFBS Board and all its members I would like to wish her very well for the future.”

Notes for Editors

The WFBS brings together cleaning and other support service businesses from across the globe with the shared aim of improving and professionalizing the industry.

The World Federation of Building Service Contractors is a dynamic union of national and international associations consisting of individual contracting companies, manufacturers and suppliers from around the globe.

The result of this union is an international forum in which contractors, manufacturers and suppliers to the industry can address and solve problems of common concern, exchange new ideas and techniques, and promote the building service contracting industry.
